

Crystal Ground takes off for its third season – and comes up with lots of innovations

The upcoming winter season approaches pretty fast and Crystal Ground – Snowpark Kleinwalsertal awaits the winter sports- scene with a bunch of news. All friends of board sports will again have a good time at the snowpark this winter.

The Crystal Ground itself is going to glisten in its renewed splendour. The new setup includes four lines now: An "easy line" for kids and beginners, the "public line", which provides interesting and spectacular obstacles for all ages, as well as the "advanced public line" for the sophisticated jibbers. A separate "kicker line" for friends of the airtime tops off the setup for the upcoming season. So you may be looking forward to massive slopestyle action at the Kleinwalsertal again.

Furthermore, a second snow-lance has been bought with the help of the local supporters and sponsors. This makes Crystal Ground even more independent from the weather conditions. May the season never end!

The sun terrace, which already proved its worth last winter, has been transformed into a veritable chillout lounge without further ado. You can be sure that there will be one or another BBQ-session taking place right here.

Also in the personnel sector there will be changes happening: Clemens Paul is going to pass over the position as parkmanager to Andi Fritz, teamrider of the Crystal Ground Shop Team himself. Andi Fritz and Flo Geiger will now take daily care of the snowpark and its shape to provide perfect riding conditions throughout the whole season.

The last year's intensified youth support with the Crystal Ground Shop Team and the integration of kids-contest into the established events at the Crystal Ground is already yielding fruit. So Toby Hammer, team manager at Rossignol, became alert on our local hero Dejan Pasic and directly nominated him as a new member of the national Rossignol Freeski Team.

Another happy news is the fact, that the Iron Night 2008 as an important element of the "Suzuki Wir Schanzen Tournee" has become an official part of the "Swatch TTR World Snowboard Tour". A special Iron Night setup, a Quiksession-concert directly at the snowpark as well as the legendary FUNK-Aftershowparty guarantee a superlative contest again.
